

HEAVY VOTE IN SOME CONTESTS

Mrs. Randle Polls Over 25,000 in Her Contest.

And Assumes First Position in Contest in the County for the Most Popular Lady.

HOW THEY STAND TODAY.

Mrs. Randle is in first place in the most popular lady on the rural routes contests, polling the unprecedented total of over 25,000 votes today, which gives her the largest total vote of any candidate in either of the contests. Mr. J. W. Harris, of the county, polled over 19,000 votes and takes first place in his contest.

The voting of the balance of this month will be very heavy as the candidates and their friends are working hard to get in all the subscriptions possible and get the benefit of the extra value attached to subscriptions paid in this month.

A Gold Watch,
An Umbrella.

To the most popular men in Paducah:

A Gold Watch,
An Umbrella.

To the most popular lady residing on the rural routes in this county:

A Gold Watch.
To the most popular man residing on the rural routes in this county:

A Buggy.
Everyone is entitled to a vote in each of these contests. All you have to do is to fill out the ballots to be found in each issue of The Sun and send them in. You will note that the ballots have a time limit,—must be voted within a week of the date thereon.

Special coupons of votes will be issued for payments on subscriptions, and we would call everyone's attention to the fact that subscriptions paid now are worth double what they will be worth in March. For instance: 40c will pay for The Sun one month and entitle you to 80 votes, if paid now. The same subscription paid in March will entitle you to only 40 votes. A year's subscription, $4.50, will entitle you to 1100 votes, if paid now; in March, if you wait it will be worth only 500 votes. Thus you see the wisdom of sending in your subscriptions early.

The piano is "The Valley Gem," sold by W. T. Miller, and is one of the best pianos he sells. It is valued at $250.

The watch for the first contest is on exhibition at Nagel & Meyer's, for the second at J. L. Wolff's, for the third contest, at Warren & Warren's.

The buggy for the most popular man in the county, is one Powell & Rogers sell for $65, and can be seen at their place of business.

A local physician is authority for the assertion that a patient's imagination is one of the greatest factors in effecting a cure of most diseases, especially in treating indigestion.

"You have heard of people who chew their food twice as long as ordinarily and dieting," he explained, "and that is all well and good, but the way I treat indigestion is a little different, but I make them do the chewing act just the same."

WHY NOT HERE?

"In the columns of yesterday's papers there was an item carried by the Associated Press, telling of the arrest of fifty men in Chicago for spitting on the sidewalks," says the Lexington Herald. "This item was considered of sufficient importance by the greatest news gathering organization of the world to send all over the world, and we are confident that no item in the paper was read with more pleasure by thousands and tens of thousands of citizens of America than it was. If it means, as we believe it does, the beginning of similar action in every city in the country, it will make a change that will decrease annoyance, irritation, disgust and will do much to prevent the spread of disease and death."

"Why can not Lexington be the next city to follow the lead of Chicago, and let the Associated Press carry the news that, in Lexington, every man who so far forgets himself, who is so ignorant of the decencies of life as to spit on the sidewalk, is arrested and fined or put in the lockup. It will do more to attract favorable notice to Lexington than any one thing that can be done."

In this connection it might also be asked, Why not in Paducah? Why should street cars, halls and buildings, pavements, and other public places be allowed to remain so filthy? How long will it be until the people realize the danger of tolerating such unsanitary conditions? How long will it take for some of the people of Paducah to be convinced that connection with the sanitary sewerage, a clean yard and home, clean street cars and public buildings and such things, may save them or some one they care for, much illness—possibly save life itself?

To fine Dick Knott and the Louisville Post $500 for criticizing a certain place of business in Louisville with the evidence produced by the defendants shows that saloons are regarded as important moral resorts in the city and that to say anything against them is an outrage and must not be tolerated. We regard the verdict as another outrage.—Mayfield Messenger. That's nothing, though. Here in Paducah when they want to arrest a saloon for keeping open on Sunday they go all the way to Mechanicsburg to do it.

PAUL JONES' GRAVE

IT IS LOCATED IN A FAR-AWAY PLACE.

Speech Made at Paris Yesterday by United States Ambassador.

Paris, Feb. 23.—The feature of Washington's birthday banquet of the America club was a speech by Ambassador Porter detailing the search he has prosecuted the last five years for the grave of the founder of the American navy, John Paul Jones.

The ambassador related a remarkable search made to determine the authentic grave of Jones. After long search it was finally made certain that the interment was in the now abandoned Saint Louis cemetery, the ground of which had been covered with buildings. A shaft was sunk seven feet and the bodies were found undisturbed. After difficult negotiations lasting over a year the proprietors and tenants gave options for the necessary excavations, whereupon estimates for the future cost of the investigation, amounting to $35,000, were recommended to congress by President Roosevelt. If the appropriation is refused Ambassador Porter explained that the options will lapse and it will be difficult to renew them.

In conclusion the ambassador said: "While other nations are gathering the ashes of their heroes in their pantheons, their Vnthalias and their Westminster Abbeys, all that is mortal of this marvelous organizer of American victories upon the sea lies like an outcast in a squalid section of a distant city, in a neglected grave where it was placed by the hand of charity to keep it from the potters field. What was once consecrated ground is desecrated by vegetable gardens, a deposit for night soil and even burial of dogs. It is fitting that an effort be made to give him an appropriate sepulture in last in the land of liberty which his efforts helped make free."

CITY PHYSICIAN.

Only Two Candidates Have Thus Far Announced.

So far there are but two candidates mentioned for city physician. Drs. Carl M. Sears and Johnston Bass.

There is some question as to whether the ordinance to be brought in prescribing the duties of the city physician will be affected by the decision regarding the management of the new city hospital, which is probably holding off some prospective candidates. If the city physician is made superintendent of the hospital, the salary will probably be increased and the office made more desirable.

ONE PROPOSITION MADE ASSOCIATION

Mundy Company's Representative Meet the Members.

The Contract Will Not Be Let Until Other Companies Are Heard From.

THE DATE NOT YET SETTLED

The Carnival Association met last night at Hotel Lagomarsino and heard the proposition from Mr. Va Troube, representing the Mundy Carnival Co., but did not let the contract, as it desires to hear from others.

Mr. Troube arrived yesterday afternoon and submitted his proposition in writing. The association did not like some provisions in the proposition and will wait until other companies are heard from before closing.

The Parker Co. will send Mr. Edwards here but he has not yet arrived. The association also expects some one from the Famous Co., and will carefully consider all propositions. The Mundy company seems to be the most favored, however. It carries all new attractions, four being brought here from the old country, and carries its own electric light plant and enclosure.

One other matter the association is weighing is relative to the dates. If the Mundy Co. gets the contract the Paducah carnival will have to wait before the decision of Chattanooga before the week can be set. If Chattanooga accepts the second week in May, Paducah will have to take the third and if Chattanooga takes the third week, Paducah will get the second. The local association prefers the first week in May but must take what it can get.

Secretary Rodney Davis stated this morning that he had sent out telegrams and expects answers daily. He is looking into the different companies and examining everything minutely so the local association will know exactly what it is getting.

Chattanooga will decide Sunday what date she wants and this will be a factor in deciding if the Mundy Co. will be successful here.

It is hoped to have the contract decided on by Saturday, and the Gaskill-Ferrell company, which wrote today, was so informed, and is expected to be heard from by that time.

FEWER APPLIES

For Aid Since MID Weather Has Arrived.

Miss Corrine Grundy, secretary of the Charity club, has not been so busy since milder weather came as before and finds paupers are not suffering so much as during the extreme cold weather.

Mrs. Grundy is a keen observer and stated that paupers were crafty and when one received aid from the club or county, would spread the news to others and that there was a regular army of paupers in the community who did nothing but apply for aid.

THE NEW HOSPITAL COMMITTEE DECIDES

Will Hold a Meeting This Evening.

Name Selected is "Riverside"—Other Meetings Are to Be Held.

NEWS OF LOCAL INTEREST

The matter of settling plans for the management and furnishing of Riverside hospital will probably be settled tonight in the board of aldermen, but the council will have to act on the recommendation before they become law.

The doctors presented outlined plans for governing the hospital, the principal item being the board of managers. The doctors suggested that three doctors and two councilmen be appointed on the board, but now are willing to amend it by making it three councilmen and two doctors if the legislative board members desire. The committee has been instructed to report tonight and will do so.

It is not known what will be decided, but if the recommendations of the doctors as amended are concurred in by the aldermen, it will mean adoption by the lower board. Local physicians have been working hard to get the hospital in service and are urging that all preliminary work be finished as soon as possible.

In regard to furnishing the hospital, one doctor stated that he hoped the city would not put in cheap furnishings which would have to be taken out in a few years. The most economical plan which has been proven in every instance is to put in the best equipment and furnishings at the start and this is what the doctors will recommend.

This committee had nothing to do with the managing of the hospital, but is simply the one appointed sometime ago to select and report a name.

The committee appointed to name new city hospital held a meeting yesterday afternoon at the city hall, and decided on the name "Riverside" for the new hospital. The committee consists of Drs. P. H. Stewart, J. G. Brooks, D. G. Murrell and Frank Boyd, and Chairman Barnett, of the councilmanic hospital committee, and President Ingram, of the board, and Chairman Farley, of the aldermanic hospital committee, and President Davis, of the board of aldermen.

Five votes were cast for the name "Riverside," two for "City Hospital" and one for "Reuben Saunders" hospital. The name "McDonald" in honor of the celebrated practitioner, was suggested, but Riverside was the most popular. The action of the committee in selecting the name will be brought before the two boards for ratification.

Col. W. R. Poiglase, of the American-Franz Fire Co., Chicago, will be here Saturday to confer with officials relative to buying a new truck and the chief's runabout. Mr. Poiglase is well known in Paducah, having sold the city its chemical engine a few years ago as well as other fire apparatus.

The board of city supervisors may finish its work tomorrow and adjourn. The three supervisors are assisted by Mr. W. R. Holland, and the present outlook is for a completion of the work by tomorrow.

Tonight the board of aldermen will pass on the ordinance for improving Pitt street from Kentucky to Jackson. Originally it was proposed to pave it in Norton, but the aldermen defeated it, and the council has now changed it and provided for paving the street from Kentucky to Jackson.

The superintendent of the light plant reported that one of the armatures burned out recently has been repaired, but the plant is still running short because repairs on one of the boilers have not been completed.

The board deferred action on the plank walk from Sixth and George to Eighth and Rockman streets, as some residents want it wide enough to admit the passage of teams.

Police Court.

The case for alleged criminal assault against E. J. Trall, the barber, preferred by Mrs. Ramie Bradford, fell through in police court this morning with a dull thud. It developed at the trial that the woman may not be married to the man she claimed as her husband, and that her actions had not been as discreet in the past as they might have been. Judge Sanders promptly dismissed the warrant, and said he doubted the advisability of issuing it at the time, and so informed the couple when they came after it.

Tom Bates, colored, who assaulted C. N. Baker, of the Noah's Ark store last November, was fined another $100 and given 50 days in jail. He was fined several days ago for breaking into a house and striking a girl with a chair. This makes a total of $200 in fines and 100 days in jail to serve.

Hopeless Muddle.

Louisville, Ky., Feb. 23.—The trouble in Louisville military circles due to the conflict between Col. H. S. Hindman of the First Kentucky and the officers of the regiment do not seem to be any nearer a settlement. As a result, Magistrate Shadburn, at the meeting of the fiscal court recommended that certain work on the new armory be held up until it is settled that Louisville is to have a regiment.

The trouble in the regiment was brought to a head when the officers asked Col. Hindman to resign, claiming that his usefulness was at an end, and that he had alienated his men. They also asserted that the regiment was not organized according to law and that therefore he was not legally the colonel, and never had been.

As a result of this a court of inquiry was ordered by the governor, and upon the recommendations of this court a number of mutinous officers accuse Col. Hindman of being over-fond of personal display and also of being ignorant of military affairs. Many of the officers have resigned, and the regiment seems in a hopeless muddle.

4,000 SAVED

IP CONVERSATIONS IN LOUISVILLE COUNT FOR MUCH.

Yesterday a Day of Remarkable Scenes—15,000 Went to Church.

Louisville, Feb. 23.—Louisville is at present agitated by a remarkable religious movement. Thus far four thousand conversions have been announced, and it is confidently expected that the close of the services on Sunday next will find the number doubled. During the first week of the revival, which began Feb. 12, one thousand persons professed Christianity, and on Sunday last, which was Decision Day, three thousand more declared their faith.

But the most remarkable scenes were witnessed yesterday when the ministers in charge of the movement, taking advantage of the holiday, conducted a day of prayer at the twenty-four points where revival services have been in progress. Many business houses and factories closed, some for an hour or two, and some for half a day, at the request of the ministers. It was a common spectacle during the noon hour to see grave business men and their clerks scurrying along the streets, throwing their luncheons from their hands in order to have more time for the prayer service. Thousands of employees who had but the noon hour to spare took their lunch boxes to the churches. The attendance figures show that 45,000 people, or one-fifth of Louisville's population, attended the services, and at many points large numbers were turned away. The attendance is the more remarkable in view of the fact that the meetings were held especially for busy workers and the women and home-staying portion of the city were requested to remain at home.

A CRANK

Attempted to Get Too Near the President.

Washington, Feb. 23.—President Roosevelt and party returned from Philadelphia last night.

The president apparently was not annoyed by an incident which occurred in Philadelphia while he was driving from the Academy of Music to the Artory, where he was the guest of the city trooper at luncheon.

Before the presidential party reached the city trooper an unknown man dashed into the street and got within eight or ten feet of the president's carriage. There he was struck with the flat of a sabre by one of the troopers who surrounded the president's carriage, and checked by the force of the blow, he staggered back and was lost sight of in the crowd.

The man appeared to be a laborer. Those who witnessed the incident believe he merely sought to shake hands with the president. He had run parallel with the carriages for over a block and secret service agent Tyree, who rode with the president, had ordered him to get out of the way. Tyree finally called to a trooper who quickly drew his sabre and as the man refused to stop, struck him a blow on the back.

Very soon Marie Walwright will be here in "Twelfth Night" and Richard Mansfield in "Iran the Terrible." Both are stage celebrities who will pack the house.

Percy A. Finnimore in advance of "The Girl from Kays" one of the largest musical comedies on the road, is at Hotel Lagodorsky. The show is here next week.

Manager English hopes to soon book Nat Goodwin for Paducah. He has not yet done so however.

"Buster Brown" is to come to Paducah this season it is now probable. In this Paducah theatergoers will have an opportunity to see the prima donna Miss Enidale Lackey Pratt daughter of a former Paducah dentist.

"A Chinese Honeymoon" had two large audiences at The Kentucky yesterday and proved a delightful treat. While the company is possibly not up to the one of last season, it is a good one, and the various principals were adequate in every way and the chorus and costuming, as well as scenery, were very fine.

The musical numbers were repeatedly encored and the "Honeymoon" can always be sure of a good patronage in Paducah. There were several theater parties out last night.

Swayne Case Nearly Over.

Washington, Feb. 23.—The senate sitting as a court of impeachment in the Swayne case, has perfected arrangements for closing the trial and is looking to a final vote by Saturday.

HOW YOU CAN TELL GENUINE DIAMONDS

If you doubt the genuineness of your diamond, or stones which you contemplate purchasing, it is not necessary to submit them to an expert—by studying the following methods of testing the gems you may become your own expert.

The chief role is in the hands of Thomas Krueger, the established favorite, who has reached the top notch of popularity by his clever work in this latest role. His part in the last two season's big success,

"A Little Outcast," which comes to

The Kentucky for matinee and night next Saturday, is a revelation to the theater goers in the way of scientific equipment, novel devices and original incidents.

For the first lesson, take a real diamond and an imitation. Drop them in glasses of water. The imitation will fly into bits, while the genuine stone will not be affected. Finally, try to crush between two hard plates a diamond and an imitation and learn the difference.

After the diamond, the sapphire is the hardest stone; with her more beautiful sister, she possesses also the quality of resisting the attacks of the fire, but she is, however, cloudy in appearance and of a milky hue. The topaz is slightly yellowish and surrenders to the cutting teeth of the file. There are a great number of white diamonds, but a pure, clear, transparent stone without a shade of color is more rare than is often supposed.

Besides white diamonds, there are some which exhibit the shades of red, blue, green, yellow, brown, black and pink. Heat sometimes causes a diamond to change its color, and after a time the color thus acquired becomes permanent. Yellow diamonds, or those commonly denominated "off color," furnish the greatest variety of shades and some of them exceed in beauty all other stones of that color.

Specimens of canary-colored diamonds are by no means rare. They may almost be said to be common. A pink or rose-colored diamond is of great value, and the red diamond, surpassing the ruby in its magnificent coloring, is considered the most beautiful of all the precious stones, being exceedingly rare. The one bought by Paul, czar of Russia, weighed 10 carats and cost him two and one-half million francs. A perfectly black diamond is almost as rare as a red one.

For beauty the blue stone comes directly after the red diamonds. Those possessing the deep blue, and in this respect resembling the sapphire, are indeed most beautiful gems, differing from the sapphire only in quality and by the magnificence of their colors peculiar to the diamond. The only true blue diamonds come from the mines in India. The varieties of green are not so rare as the blues, reds, blacks and pinks, but those of grass green hue like the beautiful emerald are seldom found.

Where they do exist, however, they surpass in brilliancy the finest emeralds.

In place of the Brazilian diamond, which of late years has become quite scarce, Cape diamonds of much inferior value and brilliancy are often sold. To be able to distinguish between these gems is an accomplishment possessed by the few.

CHAPTER XXIV.

THE road between Oxford and Hanbury is the most peaceful of thoroughfares, laid with romantic directness, gently undulating in parts, passing through quiet villages and a sweet country, mildly beautiful, yet to the mind of Frances Wentworth this innocent highway ever remained, if it were, a section of the broad path to perdition. In after life she never thought of it but with a creepy sensation of horror.

Responsibility seemed to be the portion of William Armstrong as well as of his fair companion. She shuddered that he was powdering on the events which had happened when their faces were set south over this course, and in part she was right, but the thoughts which rankled in his mind were those implanted by De Courcy, and the wily Frenchman had been accurate enough in his belief that the young man's pleasure in the northward journey would be spoiled. He could not bring himself to tell any explanation from the girl, nor even tell her what De Courcy had said, for he saw that already a weight of woe oppressed her and to that burden he would not add a pressure of the slightest word.

He possessed a supreme confidence in her and only feared that she had loved this rascal since and that some remnant of this long ago affection still remained. Her own words before they reached Oxford, her own action during the encounter fronting the Crown Inn, disturbed him far more than the insinuations of the Frenchman. He strove to rid himself of these thoughts, but they were very intrusive and persistent. At last with an effort he roused himself and cried with feigned hilarity:

"Frances, we travel like two nutts the influence of saddened Oxford is still upon us both. We are long out of sight of the town, so let us be done with all remembrance of it. The meet with the king this morning has stirred me up to a great pity for him, but vexed meditations on his case are no help either to him or to us. The spur is the only weapon I can wield for him now, so let us gallop and cry, 'God save the king!'"

With that they raced together for a time and were the better of it. He had become almost cheerful again when the spires of Hanbury came into view, and thanked fortune that the first stage of their march was safely over.

They found old John and his pack horse both ready for the road again, and Armstrong was plainly loath to let such a fine evening slip by without further progress, but Frances seemed so worn and worn that he had not the heart to propose a more distant stopping place, and, with a sigh, he put up his horse for the night.

While he was gone the innkeeper came furtively to Frances, and, after seeing the pass, led her to the prepared room and showed her the door.

Much against her will, Armstrong insisted upon her coming to supper with him, although she professed she had no appetite, and indeed sat opposite him forlorn and could not touch a morsel. In vain he urged her to eat, but she shook her head, avowing his glance and keeping her eyes downcast.

"My girl," he said anxiously, "you are completely tired. I see that you are on the point of being ill if better care is not taken. Rest here a few days. I beg of you. Eager as I am to be forward, I will stay if you wish to have me near you, or I will push on and come back for you."

"I shall be well enough in the morning, most like. I am tired tonight."

"And dispirited too."

"Yes, and dispirited. You will excuse me, I know."

Frances rose to her feet, but seemed so faint that she leaned against the table for support. He was by her side at once.

"My sweet lass, I am so sorry for you. Tell me what I can do for you if you require it."

"No, no! Heaven grant you take no heart for my sake."

He slipped his arm about her waist and would have drawn her toward him, but with more strength than he had expected her to possess she held away. His great love for her almost overcame him and all the prudence he had gathered was scattered suddenly to the winds. "Dear, dear lass, one touch of our lips and see if all doubts do not dissolve before the contact."

Now she writhed herself free and would have escaped but he sprang forward and caught her by the wrists, a grip she was to remember later in the night. In spite of this pinching, her hands were raised to the sides of her face and a look of such terror shot from her eyes that he feared some madness had come upon her.

"Not that! Not that!" she shrieked. "The kiss of Judas! It would kill me!"

His arms dropped paralyzed to his sides and he stepped back a pace, numbed at the expression she had used and the terror of her utterance. Next instant he was alone and the closed door between them. Still he stood ment all action was impossible and she was stricken into frozen marble. She imagined he was awake and knew her, and then the cold horror of her situation numbed thought at its source.

"Frances!" The voice came more steeply this time, and he repented thrice, very rapidly, "Frances, Frances!" Poorly her heart had taken up its work again. She was not to die still too early. People sleep heavier as the night worn on. One, two, three, four, five, six, seven. It must be midnight, and the first five strokes had been on Crumwell's insatiate. She roused herself and attempted to take off her shoes, but her hands were trembling so she was forced to desist. She sat up again, telling herself it was better to wait until all effect of the long climbing had ceased, for the striking of twelve sometimes disturbed or awakened the soundest sleeper. The clock tower seemed dangerously near, as if it were approaching her hour by hour. At last the sleep came off, and in stockinged feet she stood by the secret door, waiting till the frighteningly rapid beating of her heart should moderate, till threatened to choke her. Then she slid back the bar and drew open the door, all so smoothly did that there was not the whisper of a creak. She stepped into the cavern of blackness and darkness, holding her spread hands in front of her, moving slowly, with the utmost caution, step by step.

Then it seemed the fingers loosened, but hand and wrist had lost all feeling, and she could not be sure. She tottered and nearly fell. When she stood upright again she was free; he muttering to himself and his hand slushing unrelaxed on the mattress as if it missed something it sought drunkenly to recover. The girl could scarce suppress a joy at her release. She moved eagerly in the path that should lead her to the door, but, hurrying too much, came upon his Jackboots on the door and fell helplessly, so overwrought that even when her feet touched them she could not draw back.

"Who's there? Who's in this room?" cried Armstrong. She was standing again, fully expecting to hear his feet on the floor, but the heel struck three, and he counted drearily and all was still again. When she reached her room she closed and barred the door as silently as she had opened it. The tension relaxed, she felt she was going to swoon. Blindly she groped for her shoes, murmuring, "O God, not yet—yet not yet! Give me a moment more!" Finding her footgear at last she drew not walt to put them on, but stole softly down the stair, standing herself against the wall. The cool air outside struck her like the blessing of God and soothed her whirling head. She heard a horse champing his bit, then a whisper came out of the darkness:

"Is that you at last, redundant?"

"Yes," she said, sinking on the door step and leaning her head against the door, the cold stone grateful to her hot forehead.

"You are not hurt, madam?" inquired the man anxiously.

"No, no," she gasped, then, with an old, old little laugh, "I want to put on my shoes, that's all."

Itch—Ringworm.

B. T. Lucas, Wingo, Ky., writes April 25th, 1902: "For 10 to 12 years I had been afflicted with a malady known as the 'itch.' The itching was most unbearable; I had tried for years to find relief, having tried all remedies I could hear of, besides a number of doctors. I wish to state that one single application of Ballard's Snow Liniment cured me completely and permanently. Since then I have used the liniment on two separate occasions for ringworm and it cured completely. 25c, 50c, and $1.00 bottle. Dullos, Kolb & Co., Paducah, Ky."

A letter this afternoon from Miss Aline Bagby states that her company has cancelled its Memphis engagement, and is booked instead for Owensboro, Bowling Green, Henderson, Madisonville and Evansville, in addition to Paducah.

MANY TIES

WILL BE CAUGHT AWAY BY THE RISING RIVERS.

They Are on the Banks of the Ohio
Below New Albany.

Louisville, Ky., Feb. 23.—Severed along the banks of the Ohio river for a distance of 100 miles below New Albany there are 1,500,000 railway cross ties, many of which will be lost should there come a high tide in the river while it is filled with ice. Precautions have been taken by the owners to protect the property as much as practicable. Thousands of ties had been loaded on barges preparatory to being towed to New Albany for shipment by rail to the Northwest, but were delayed in starting by the ice. These barges have since, whenever possible, been run into the small streams, to remain there until the ice clears from the Ohio river.

Three months ago the Pennsylvania, B. and O. S. W., Big Four and other railway corporations contracted with Southern Indiana dealers for the delivery of over 3,000,000 cross ties. Since then hundreds of men have been busy in the hills of the river counties of Southern Indiana cutting the ties, while an equally large force, with scores of teams, has been hauling them to the river bank for shipment to New Albany, the distributing point, where the ties are loaded on cars for shipment to the various railroads purchasing them. These ties represent an outlay of nearly $2,000,000 and they are to be delivered as rapidly as possible.

Croup

Begins with the symptoms of a common cold; there is chills, sneezing, sore throat, hot skin, quick pulse, hoarseness and impeded respiration. Give frequent small doses of Ballard's Horehound Syrup (the child will cry for it) and at the first sign of a bronchial cough, apply frequently Ballard's Snow Liniment to the throat.

Mrs. A. Vilie, New Castle, Colo., writes, March 19th, 1901: "I think Ballard's Horehound Syrup a wonderful remedy, and so pleasant." 25c, 50c and $1.00. Dullos, Kolb & Co., Paducah, Ky.

KNIGHTS OF PYTHIAS.

Shively, of this city, supreme chancellor of the Knights of Pythias of the world, bearing on the order's finances. This shows that on January 19, 1905, the supreme master of exchequer had on hand a balance of $44,892, and that the resources of the endowment rank in excess of liabilities was $887,654.

The real estate owned by the supreme lodge at Wilmington, Del., is reported as improving some in the conditions surrounding it, with a fair prospect of a good sale in the near future.

The Lexington hotel property, in Chicago, now under the management of the board of control, will be continued under that management until such time as an acceptable lease or sale could be made of the same.

Are You Restless at Night?

And harassed by a bad cough? Use Ballard's Horehound Syrup. It will secure you sound sleep and effect a prompt and radical cure. 25c, 50c, and $1.00. Dullos, Kolb & Co., Paducah, Ky.

Eagle Shot From Moving Car.

Egypt, Mo., Feb. 23.—A gray eagle measuring seven feet eight inches from tip to tip was shot recently by George L. Frazer of this city while he was aboard a train that was backing up at the rate of 25 miles an hour and while the bird was flying. The bullet, from a 38-caliber revolver, entered the bird's neck and came out between its eyes, killing it instantly. The shot was witnessed by thirty spectators.
